

English Activity Day

We are very honored to have Dr. Kristen Murray from the University of Hong Kong as the adjudicator of our English Activity Day this year. She is a theatre expert and educator with over 20 years of experience in teaching and directing. She gave a lot of positive feedback, said the performances were of high quality, and she loved the body movements that were demonstrated. It was suggested that future performances could consider the use of stage space, as some of the performances had done.
